John Tolbert Assumes New Council Duties

Leadership of the Student Council changed hands recently when John Tolbert, vice-president, assumed the presidency after the resignation of Bruce Helbing. Dave Ingold, junior, was elected by the Council to fill the vacant position of vice-president.

"I hope to increase the prestige and respect of the Student Council through more community and school services," stated the new president, concerning his plans for the future.

John's plans also include having pep rallies for the basketball games and a better organized Student Government Day. He also has hopes of obtaining a Senior Tag Day and other senior privileges.

The Student Council has received a commendation from the Wilmington director of the Salvation Army because of its Thanksgiving Drive for needy families.

The Council's attention now turns toward the Christmas Drive. A goal of $300 has been set, and the money will go to needy families in our area.

Other planned activities include a Baby Slave Day and the Christmas Dance.

Girls Exceed Boys On Honor Roll List

Girls outnumbered boys on the first listing of honor roll students by more than 3 to 1. Whether it was due to good looks, high IQ's, or just hard work, the girls seemed to have an edge over the boys.

Sophomores, with 27 names on the coveted list, narrowly outdid the seniors, who placed 26. Juniors, with 20, ranked third.

The complete list follows: First honor roll, grade 12: Mary Ann Bruno, Pamela Dewey, Janet Dickerson, Nancy Edler, Coleen Geaghan, Barbara Mite, Doris Hogentogler, Linda Miller, Cindy Paris, Frederick Polask, Charles Rau, and Vivian Willson.

Second honor roll, grade 12: Catherine Chlebowski, Camille Czajkowski, Dennis Della-Loggia, Diane Ellis, Dorothy Melte, Kathy Hosan, Diane Lorenzoni, David Lowden, Jeanmarie Martin, Wesley Marvill, William Mavity, Susan Simpkins, Patricia Szwed, and Katherine Vincent.

First honor roll, grade 11:

Valerie Armstrong, Keith Haden, Julia Martin, Mary Ann Phillips, Carol Prestowitz, Ellen Prestowitz, Edward Rbsiak, Janet Taylor, and James Trost.

Voters Pass Referendum; Conrad's Future Brightens

The passage of the referendum December 10, providing a tax-rate increase of 10 cents, will have far-reaching effects on the Conrad educational program.

The vote was 1,204 in favor and 950 opposed, with 19 ballots declared void.

Long-awaited salary increases for all employees of the district will now be possible. The district supplement for a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree will rise from $500 to $800, and will gradually increase with years of experience. In addition, the administrators, cafeteria workers, custodians, and secretaries will see salary changes. The pay for extra duties performed by employees will also increase.

The additional money will compensate for the increased cost of instructional supplies, utilities for operations, maintenance of facilities, and textbooks. It will now be possible for the school to purchase workbooks and other supplies that have no carry-over value.

The athletic program will be supported and bus transportation will be provided for field trips. Renovation of classrooms in the old section of the building will be carried out in addition to the replacement of 30-year-old furniture and window sash and frames.

Unexpected repairs and unforeseen emergencies will also be taken into account in the budget.

Conrad Actors Ring Christmas 'Chimes'

"Why the Chimes Rang," a one-act play by Elizabeth Aphorpe McFadden, will be presented as the Christmas program in the auditorium Friday. The play is a spiritual fantasy of Medieval times.

The story tells of a miracle that occurred as a result of a humble gift offering. The two main characters are Holger, a boy whose good will is rewarded (portrayed by Bob Russell) and Steen, a younger boy (portrayed by Tim Laushey). Other leading characters are Bertel (played by Bob Lantis) and the old woman (played by Pam Dewey).

The town cathedral is the site where the presentation of the costly Christmas offerings take place. It is believed that a truly great offering will cause the chimes to ring.

The characters in the cathedral are brought to life by Bob Byrd, Tom Bullen, Jim Macmicking, Pam Cowell, Janice Martin, Pauline Betti, Bill Bratton, and Barbara Borders.

The cast, under the direction of Mrs. Louise Goddin, will present the play to the junior high schools December 22.

Conrad's Best To Vie On TV

Six finalists have been selected to represent Conrad on the KYW TV show, "It's Academic." From these, three regular contestants and three alternates will later be chosen. Among the seventeen Conradian contestants, KYW TV personnel recommended Chuck Rau, Bill Mavity, Keith Haden, Leslie Marquette, Pam Dewey, and Joe Johnston. Dr. Isabelle Miller, sponsor, will help to select and prepare them for their TV appearance in February.

PTA Stresses Need For New Members

Besides the underlying job of creating a more common relationship between parents and teachers, the present goal of the Parent Teachers' Association is to strive toward increased membership in the organization.

Veto Aluise, president of the PTA, cites a need to arouse the interest of the people toward their school district. PTA members worked actively contacting and urging parents to support the December 10 referendum.

Mr. Aluise is also hopeful of having a meeting with the faculty in the near future to discuss possible worthwhile undertakings and goals for the PTA.

Every year the PTA directs the Henry C. Conrad Scholarship Fund. At a recent reunion, the Class of 1941 voted to contribute their total treasury of $117 to the 1966-67 fund. The scholarship fund committee expresses its thanks to the Class of '41 and hopes their action may set a precedent for other class organizations to follow.

The scholarship committee wants to raise the money this year through such contributions rather than through fund-raising affairs and sales.

Tell It On The Mountain

The Time was one of crying from despair and dying when nobody had time to cry for you.

Then, in the deep gloom of political oppression, Greatness was born — six feet of humanity, in the trillions that are space. He walked quietly through life, yet made Man's Universe tremble as never before or since. And he did it without gun or sword.

Two thousand years ago it was a Time for Greatness in the midst of oppression, and the Time is again now. Go tell it on the mountain!

Voters Deserve Praise

The passage of the December 10 referendum is a success which can be attributed to all those who sacrificed their time and effort for this important cause.

We wish to thank the School Board, the workers who appealed to the community members through door-to-door contact, all those connected with the organization of the referendum, and the voters themselves, whose good judgment and support were vital.

Conrad will now be able to rank itself among the top schools in the area, and we Conradians can look forward to opportunities and facilities for which we will not have to apologize.

Neophyte Covers First Game

By LESLEY LEIFER

Everyone should see his first football game on Thanksgiving Day, I did.

Knowing nothing about football except that it had been taking away my friends on Saturdays for the last three years, I went with an open (and empty) mind.

As I sat down on my seat, or better yet, lack of one, I was concentrating hard on concentrating on the game. I was going to understand and enjoy this game just like the old men with muffers did if it killed me.

Well, the concentration didn't, but the sweet-tongued precious in back of me came close.

"Hey, mister, will ya pleeeeeease sit down?"

No response from her victim.

Directing her glance at the man, she announced loudly, "Didja ever feel conspicuous?"

Her use of such a big word surprised me but didn't phase the man in front of her.

"Listen, Old Man, if you don't move yer..." and the rest was lost forever to the roar of the crowd.

The game itself stole my attention from the spectators now and again. The players seemed to run a few feet in one direction, stop, and then pile on top of each other. At this point a little man in stripes bounced over, made several frenzied vertical leaps, and blew a whistle as if he would burst.

Halftime was terrifying. From out of nowhere marched about eighty uniformed Conradians, most of whom I knew well, looking like pall-bearers. With dead serious expressions, the band moved like one great surge that could have crushed continents, not to mention those flimsy bleachers. But, despite their ominous and rigid presence, they didn't; they just made awfully nice noise.

The game itself was renewed. Suddenly I was imagining the whole thing as some sort of a medieval tournament in which the men of different nations met to prove themselves.

Ah, yes! The band was a crusading army. The girl in back of me was the village fishwife. Completely enthralled by my own little game within the game, I was more than disappointed to learn it was over.

And as the crowd massed for exit, I felt a genuine regret that my first football game had to be the last one of my senior year.

Do You Know?

- To know or not to know, that is the question! Whether it is more noble to be an egghead and know the answers to these questions or to be a sneak and look on the back page.
- 1) Who is the Rhodesian Prime Minister?
  - 2) What was the name of the latest rocket launched to photograph the moon's surface?
  - 3) Who is Mr. Peabody's (Bullwinkle Show) closest ally?
  - 4) What was the very first song of the Beatles?

C.H.S.R.C.T. Stupid Or Bright- The Answer's Right

Pencils ready? In an attempt to prepare you for the College Boards and other torture, we are publishing Part I of the Conrad High School Reading Comprehension Test.

Directions: Read the following paragraph and then answer the questions.

With the long vacation and two days of school left, Sam Senior finds himself with nothing to do. At the beginning of fourth period study hall, he enters the library in his search for knowledge, and takes a seat in the balcony. Soon after the passes are filled out, Sam, from sheer boredom, picks up a colorful Christmas ball from a nearby display and heaves it over the railing. Suddenly twelve library aides appear, seize Sam, carry him down the steps, and escort him to the office.

Rites Held For S.Claus; Students Fight Tears

By DIANE VENTRESCA

December is the time when the gossip begins, when little minds are corrupted by older children or parents, and when the truth about Santa Claus is revealed.

"Reindeer don't have wings so they can't fly," was the realistic view Michael Moore took, after the big kids told him and he discovered that his "Mommy already bought the stuff."

"You're a big liar," was Judy Eckles' reaction when one of her first grade friends let her in on the news. But because of her inability to face reality, she believed in the jolly old fella for one more year, and then finally gave in to the facts of life.

Mary Jo Renal played detective with her cousins who received a record player with a card reading, "To Diana, From Santa." With their suspicious little minds, they both concluded that the handwriting wasn't Santa's at all but Mary Jo's aunt's.

In some cases, the parents are forced to inform their children. Brenda Maddox, between her outbursts of tears, told her mother not to dare let that stranger in their house.

Anger was Bob Vanilla's only reaction when he was told. Even though he was hysterically crying, he managed to punch his "Scrooge" in the mouth.

A piano blockaded Leslie Marquette's view of the Christmas tree and gifts. However, her conniving three-year-old mind told her to investigate. Sympathizing with her parents, she explained, "I know there isn't any Santa Claus, but we won't tell Daddy."

Danny Brown, after hearing the clatter of toys on Christmas morning, ran down stairs to say "Hi," to Santa Claus. Because it wasn't snowing and Santa couldn't use his sleigh, Danny's father explained to him, "Santa just took off in a helicopter." Danny realized the nonexistence of the "fat man" when he ran to the door, and the 'copter was nowhere in sight.

Terry Doran managed to evade the truth for fifteen years. But as we know, the biggest heartbreak of his sophomore year was when someone thought it was time to tell him.

1. Sam is bored because:
    - a. There hasn't been a fire in the locker room in two weeks.
    - b. He doesn't know how to read.
    - c. All three of these.
  2. He goes to the library because:
    - a. There are still three magazines he hasn't read.
    - b. His head hurts from sleeping on it in class.
    - c. He has been kicked out of study hall too many times.
    - d. Both of these.
  3. Sam's fourth period study hall is his:
    - a. First study hall of the day.
    - b. Sixth study hall of the day.
    - c. Neither of these.
  4. The colorful Christmas ball:
    - a. Hit a library aide in the head.
    - b. Crashed head on into a study corral.
    - c. Landed safely in the dust on the magazine rack.
  5. On the way to the office, Sam:
    - a. Drowns in a drinking fountain.
    - b. Trips over a loose piece of carpet.
    - c. Is searched for stolen library books.
- STOP!! Wait for further instructions.

Mr. Lewis Believes New Math Has Beauty

Teacher-of-the-Month Alvin Lewis believes wholly in the beauty of mathematics and the importance of understanding new math concepts.

Mr. Lewis, chairman of Conrad's math department, teaches Algebra II and Nurses Math. After obtaining a B.S. degree from California State College, Mr. Lewis received his Master of Arts at West Virginia University. He did further studies at Drew University, the University of West Virginia and the University of Delaware. He also attended five summer sessions on fellowships sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Another invaluable improvement, he notes, is the ever-increasing student-teacher library within the math department.

Mr. Lewis is quite pleased with Conrad's Nurses Math course. Many girls who have become registered nurses, Mr. Lewis reports, returned to Conrad with information that Conrad's Nurses' Math was a great help to them.

Mr. Lewis is not always calculating and computing. An avid sports fan, he makes frequent trips to Baltimore and Philadelphia to see baseball and football games.

Golf is also on the list of his favorite pastimes. "I say I shoot a satisfying game of golf when I break 100," says Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis also likes music and enjoys listening to popular tunes as well as the "old stand-bys."

Every summer, with his wife and three sons, Mr. Lewis makes a trip to the beach or to the Pennsylvania mountains.

Mr. Lewis has been a faculty member since 1956 and strongly believes that Conrad ranks "near the top."

Yule Spirit Sings Anew

The Christmas spirit has hit sophomore Louise Rushie a bit hard this year. Ask her about the Santa Claus pin with the light-up nose and expect an answer to the tune of "Jingle Bells."

Turning satirist on us, are you, Bill Bratton? During the holidays, Bill, a sophomore, is rewriting Conrad's fall play "The Little Foxes" in parody form for a neighborhood kindergarten class. Well, we've all gotta start somewhere!

Santa doesn't really use tobacco in that cute little pipe of his, according to Robert Gerald, senior and poet laureate. Hmn.

Many Conradians are showing their holiday spirit by donating their time and efforts to worthwhile causes. The band and baton twirlers performed at the A. I. DuPont Institute for Crippled Children last Sunday. The Red Cross Club took part in a varsity show at the Veterans' Hospital December 16.

Redskins Tie For Second ; Best Mark In 18 Years

Conrad tied for second place in the Blue Hen Conference, Flight A, by winding up their '66 football schedule with a 26-13 Thanksgiving Day victory over arch-rival Dickinson.

The win in the finale gave the squad a seven-win, two-loss record, best in the school's history since 1948, when the Redskins had one less loss. The game also extended Conrad's advantage over the Rams to five victories against two losses.

Conrad featured a balanced scoring attack, along with a strong defense, to win. The Redskins scored in every period of the game, while holding Dickinson to a total yardage of zero in the first half.

As far as the high school spectator is concerned, football is in the past until early autumn of next year. Coach James Pletcher's responsibility is just beginning to start all over again. The job of replacing 15 seniors and three other varsity players is going to be a difficult one.

The squad will be losing size in Jack Ianire, Harry Moffett, and Bill Warren. Leadership, which these and other seniors provided, will also be missed. "This year's group of boys was one of the easiest to work with," remarked Coach Pletcher.

Three seniors boys won all-star recognition. Guy Farmer and Dave Smith were selected to the first all-conference team. Senior back Bob Watson was placed on the second team. Guy and Dave also had the honor of making the all-state second team.

In reminiscing the action that took place during the season, Coach Pletcher and players cited the contest against Wilmington High School as being the biggest and roughest physically. Possibly, the two most effective plays of the year were a pitch right or left and a screen with the fullback, one which had to be used cautiously, though.

Coach Pletcher doesn't envision any major changes in the future. He feels that with their usual pro-style offense coupled with the all around size, ability, and interest this year's players have displayed, another fine season should be possible.

Lettermen To Help Pace Wrestlers' Comeback Try

The wrestling team showed much improvement from last year's 2-7 record as they won 20 out of 26 bouts in a practice match with Claymont December 6.

Edgar Baker, head coach, and Cecil Schulze, assistant coach, feel that the team has improved greatly with six returning lettermen: Dave Clapp, Tom Darrah, Terry Doran, Jack Ianire, Bob Powell, and Hal Wilkins.

That leaves room for at least three more wrestlers in the varsity line-up containing nine positions. Other promising wrestlers are Ibrahim Madanat, junior, and Robert Cochran, a sophomore.

Mr. Schulze stated that the most difficult matches will be against De La Warr, Newark, and William Penn.

Team Tryouts Bring Out 60

The girls' basketball season got underway last week with approximately 60 girls trying out for the squad.

Millie Donovan and Janet Dickerson, returning seniors, will be the nucleus of this year's team. A scrimmage at home with St. Elizabeth's January 6 will start the season. The first scheduled home game will be with A.I. duPont High School January 11.

Sport Shorts Conrad Becomes Powerhouse

The football team's 7-2 record, the best in many years, added to that of last year's championship baseball team and third place basketball squad have established Conrad as a power in the Blue Hen Conference. This winner attitude should be a valuable asset to all other sports and to the entire school.

With hard work and interest the outlook for the golf team should be optimistic. Only two lettermen were lost through graduation. Two junior lettermen, Mike Keogh and Jim Trost, will be returning.

Senior Jim Prorock will also be able to compete this year after becoming ineligible during last year's season. Other experienced members are senior Bill Freed and juniors, Joe Hickman and Al Jeuell.

The tennis team under the direction of Arthur Craig has a good chance of taking the conference title this year. Last year the team took third place with a 7-win, 2-loss record. This year the team has 6 returning lettermen. Also, there are some fine prospects among those who were not lettermen last year.

Inexperience To Hurt Basketball Chances

"Small and inexperienced, but very fast and aggressive," was Coach James Hagan's description of this year's varsity basketball squad.

With no starters and only two lettermen returning, Coach Hagan believes Conrad could finish anywhere from fifth place to last, "depending on how hard we hustle," with Mount Pleasant and Brandywine fighting it out for the title.

The tallest man on the squad, senior Jim O'Neill, who cuts the tape at six feet, four inches, will vie with six-foot seniors Paul Marioni and Fred Polaski and another six-footer, junior Jeff Dambach, for the front court positions.

The two back court berths are "up for grabs" among seniors Dave Smith and Lou Nicoletti and juniors Ed Knotts, Terry Brown and Manley Husfelt. Juniors Dick Allen and Jack Smiley round out the varsity team.

Pudding And Pine Dominate Conrad Yuletide Sentiments

EACH YULETIDE season finds the choir preparing for Conrad's Christmas assembly.

"This year," says Mrs. Mary Ellen Collins, choir director, "in addition to performing at the assembly, we've been invited by the Wilmington Savings Fund Society to tape a broadcast which will be heard on WDEL during the holidays. We also have invitations to sing for several hospitals and civic organizations."

Choir members are also looking forward to their annual singing tour of the area junior high school early in March.

MARY JO RENAI has been named president of the Modern Dance Club. Assisting her will be Linda Armento, newly elected secretary.

During the club's last meeting members practiced basic dance routines and expressed hopes of going to New York City to see a live dance revue. According to Miss Marie Christiansen, sponsor of the club, "Plans aren't definite yet, but I hope to be able to get the girls backstage so they can get an even better understanding of all the effort that goes into a professional dance show."

"WALK TOGETHER, talk together, Oh Ye peoples of the Earth, then and only then Ye shall have Peace." This, the motto of American Field Service, will be displayed around the Conrad district on posters made by the AFS Club.

Also in tune with Christmas will be a party December 28 for all old members of AFS, to be held at the home of Jerome Stewart, sponsor.

Penny Wednesday will be resumed this year in January. Each week AFS members will go to the home-rooms and collect change to go towards the $750 needed to bring an exchange student to Conrad next year.

AFTER A lengthy and exhausting try-out period, 15 girls have been chosen as Student Leaders for '66-'67.

The fun-filled and embarrassing initiation and the annual "sanding party," (in which old battered hockey sticks are renovated) broke the ice for the newly-chosen "leaders."

TWENTY-FOUR children in Viet Nam will get school supplies through the efforts of the Red Cross Club. The club sponsored a bake sale and presented a children's movie to raise money for this "treasure chest."

The club also staged a variety show at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Linda Armstrong, senior, is the newly elected secretary of the club.

Student Of The Month Excels On Field

"I'd like to go as high and as far as my talents will carry me," proclaims Janet Dickerson, Conradian-of-the-Month.

Janet, a senior, intends never to have a dull moment and spends the day either studying math, her favorite subject, or playing a vigorous game of basketball.

Participating in many activities, Janet is a member of Student Leaders, AFS, and the Math Club. She performs the duties of a Senior Council home-room representative, and is co-captain of the color guard.

Outside of school she actively takes part in the Methodist Youth Forum at her church.

Janet lists sports as one of her main interests. She played on this year's newly-formed volleyball team and has belonged to the hockey, basketball, and softball teams.

Among her many varied interests, Janet includes dancing, coin and stamp collecting, reading, and traveling. Education plays a major role in Janet's life. Maintaining an A average, she boasts membership in both the Oreads and National Honor Society.

Regarding her selection as Conradian-of-the-Month, Janet smiled her usual dimpled smile, and commented, "I wasn't at all expecting it, but I feel very pleased and happy."

Schoolboard Actions Trustee Decisions Echo Community

The School Board, at its November 28 meeting, discussed with approximately forty members of the community the problem of renting the Conrad football field to the Wilmington Clippers, a professional team. The end result was that all negotiations with this organization would be halted.

As a result of moneys made available to the school district under House Bill 467, the wiring in the original section of the building is now being redone. Eight old heating units are also being replaced. The board expects to also replace the remaining old heating units, using moneys to be made available under House Bill 497.

From the funds obtained under Senate Bill 350, roof leaks on the north end of the building have been taken care of. Additional outlets have been provided in the biology lab area to take care of additional requirements brought on by the purchase of the new science equipment. Out of this same fund, the old incinerator will be replaced within the next few weeks.

In an effort to improve the general appearance of the property, vines will be planted along the Victoria Avenue side of the football field in the spring.

The board has set up specific nights to discuss the functions of the various departments. At the first meeting, scheduled for January 16, the chairmen of the English, social studies, health and physical education, and music departments will be on hand. Other departments will be scheduled for future dates.

The last phase of the building program, black-topping the area near the football field for parking space and erecting three new basketball courts, is now underway.

The Board of School Trustees wants the community to know that all the outdoor sports facilities are open to the community when not in school use. This does not include the football field, however, as work on it has not yet been completed.

36 Sophs Gain Honors

Thirty-six sophomores won Certificates of Educational Development as a result of scoring in the upper 10 per cent in the National Educational Development Test.

The test was conducted by the Science Research Associates, Inc.

Winners were as follows: Sharon Ammerman, Cynthia Benson, Pauline Betty, Earle Buckley, James Bindett, Pamela Casey, Patricia Craig, Phyllis Crowe, Richard Crowl, Anne Dewey, Barbara Diffendall, Kathleen Dryden, William Erhart, Carol Mosan, Robert Landis, and Margaret Leach.
